

CAPTURE OF PRZEMYSL BY RUSSIANS EXPECTED SAYS A LONDON REPORT

RELIEF FORCES FROM CARPATHIANS UNABLE TO REACH PRZEMYSL WHERE AUSTRIAN FORCES ARE STARVING.

NEW CAMPAIGN BEGINS

Extensive Operations Started By Von Hindenburg In New Effort to Reach Warsaw—Fighting on West Front.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] London, March 17.—(Newspaper) Chapelle and St. Elloi, in the west and east, and Przemysl in the east, are the pivot of the battle areas in the struggles that may mark important milestones in the war are now being fought.

The outcome of the fight for Przemysl, from which the British have driven the Germans with a loss of nearly 20,000, should prove in the opinion of British observers, whether the Germans can mass men and retrieve ground lost by them with the same battering tactics they displayed last year. On the other hand, if the British can hold the positions gained by them, it will go far toward attesting what may be expected when the allies begin their spring advance.

Crucial Fight in East.

The outcome of the battle of Przemysl will demonstrate whether Field Marshal Von Hindenburg again has failed and virtually nullified all his costly efforts to reach Warsaw.

For the month the Austrians are attempting what they have tried many times before, a dash to relieve the fortress of Przemysl. According to dispatches from Petrograd this latest effort, which has been made since the Carpathians, has definitely failed short, the Austrians having been checked in the center of their chief offensive movement at Smolnik, the southernmost of the fortifications, while the Russians are drawing closer their lines around the Przemysl fortress.

Przemysl About to Fall.

The Petrograd correspondent of Reuter's Telegram company says that the capture of the Austrian fortress at Przemysl is considered at the Russian capital as a matter of a few days only.

Austrians captured by the Russians during the unsuccessful sorties say the garrison is existing on famine rations and that the hospitals are crowded.

The fortress has been described as one of the strongest points held by troops of the dual monarchy. It has been besieged since the early weeks of the war, and never for a moment has the Russian cordon been relaxed. In a spectacular battle, various attempts to relieve the garrison, the latest having been conducted last week. Aeroplanes have been of great help for the garrison. They have kept the fortress in communication with the world, when no other method was possible.

Spring Campaign Begins.

Petrograd, March 17.—Active encounters with considerable strategic importance are now being fought in the constituent in the north through Russian Poland and eastward through Galicia to the river Dniester. Never before in the history of war in the eastern theatre has there been such continuous activity along the whole line.

In the Carpathians the Russians appear to have been successful in turning the Austrian right flank, south of Stanislaw, in a spectacular battle, which has been described as the most important in the war, which has been described as the most important in the war, which has been described as the most important in the war.

This movement was followed by a general flanking operation which drove the Austrians from the Dniester. The Russians now hope to expel their opponents from East Galicia. An encounter of equal strategic importance occurred on the Uzk pass and Turka, in Galicia, to the north of the pass in which the Russians captured the Austrians and seized railroad communications.

In the north between Grodno and Mely, Russian cavalry, which has been operating in the district for several weeks, has been successful in several infantry divisions. Along the river Orzy, which has been one of the principal routes of the German advance from East Prussia, the invasion appears to have been checked. The Russian capture of the important and heavily fortified German position at Yednorozec.

The bombardment of Osowitz still continues. Heavy artillery fire along the Bzura indicates a new attack on German activity on the Warsaw front. Nieuport Bombed.

Paris, March 17.—The enemy is again furiously bombarding Nieuport, this time with a special bombardment. An undated message from the Petit Parisien war correspondent, who adds: "Thirty shells have fallen in the town, making numerous holes and demolishing several buildings, but no one was hurt."

Belgian troops profiting by a slight recession of the waters in the district they occupy, carried two German advance positions. The Germans replied feebly, but none of their shells took effect. Torpedo boat destroyers protected

War News Summary.

Along the six hundred mile eastern front great activity prevails and Petrograd believes that the opening of spring campaign is at hand. At no previous time since the war began has there been such continuous fighting over the whole front. The official German communication shows that in the extreme north the Russians are again in the Prussian border. The report mentions Russian attack on Laugazargen which is German soil.

An official dispatch from Petrograd says that the fall of Przemysl is expected within a few days. French and German accounts of the fighting in the west are at complete variance. Each official statement announces successes in Champagne and near Belgian border. Regarding the battle which has been in progress for spur of hill on the Lorette heights, both the French and Germans make direct claims of having won.

The bombing ships, shelling a German submarine which attempted to approach. The fire against the shore positions, was directed by aeroplanes.

Fleet Standstill.

Constantinople, via Berlin, and wireless to London, March 17.—Only unimportant operations have been undertaken by the allied fleet operating against the Dardanelles for the past few days. The activity of the warships has been limited to demonstration. Two new attempts by cruisers and destroyers to approach the outer fortifications and clear the channel of mines are reported to have been futile, because of the effective fire from the defenders.

The civilian population of Constantinople appeared quite calm and almost indifferent to the efforts which are being made to force a passage of the Dardanelles.

Paris, March 17.—British mine sweeper was blown up in the Dardanelles yesterday with loss of several lives. The mine exploded at it was being removed from the straits, says a special dispatch from Athens.

JAPS EXPECT GOOD TERMS FROM CHINA

Premier Count Okuma Gives Interview to Paper Declaring Germany Instigated China Against Japan.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Tokio, March 17.—The Osaka Jiji has published an interview with Premier Count Okuma during which this Japanese statesman said he expected good results from the negotiations going on at the present time with China. The premier said, among other things, that Germany was instigating China against Japan, but that the results would be futile. He said that if Russia secured Constantinople it was his opinion that she would be content to abandon her ideas of obtaining an outlet in the Orient.

The premier spoke strongly of the changed attitude in the United States toward Japan. He said these relations were becoming very friendly and that they were especially good at the present moment.

The insurgents lost 100 men, and many wounded, while the Italian losses are placed at 40 killed and 45 wounded.

FINE AN AMERICAN WOMAN IN FRANCE

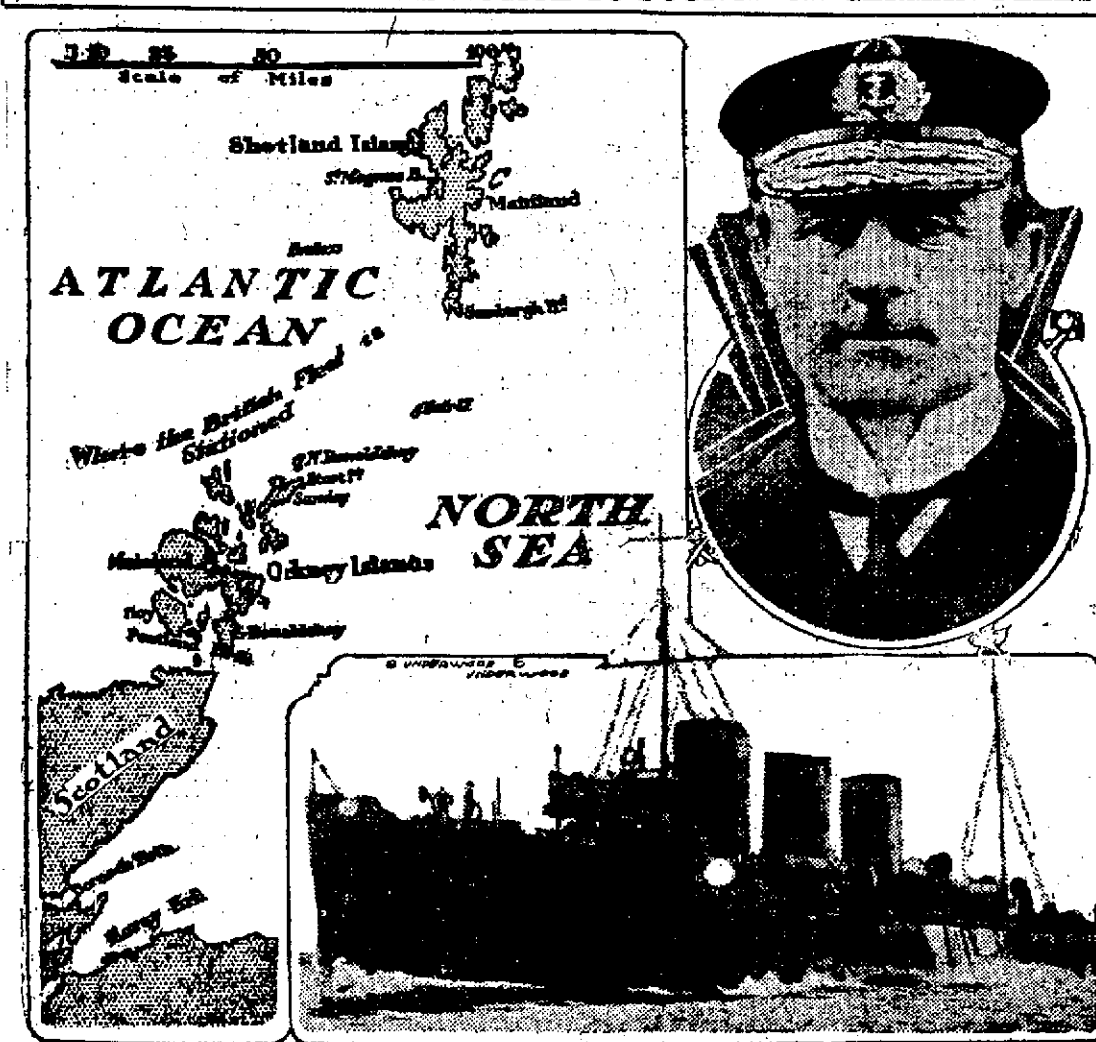

New York Woman Who Fired Shot at Man for Teasing Her Dog on Board Boat, Before Court.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Rouen, France, March 17.—An American woman, known as Miss P. S. Settle of New York, was today sentenced to pay a fine of $40 and go to prison for a month for having fired at a man named Waterman, who last November persisted in teasing her dog. She objected strenuously, but they would not desist. Becoming angry, she drew a revolver and fired at Waterman, who was the leader of the group.

The bullet flew wild, but nevertheless, Miss Settle was arrested when she reached Havre. The prison part of Miss Settle's sentence was suspended. Her defense was that she fired her revolver only to frighten with no intent to kill.

Case Continued. The suit for assault and battery brought by Clayton E. Moore against W. E. Gower and others, which was scheduled for jury trial in the circuit court on Monday, March 22, has been continued for the term.

BRITAIN'S MIGHTY ARMADA HOVERS NEAR SHETLAND ISLANDS, READY AT A MOMENT'S NOTICE TO PONCE ON GERMAN FLEET

Map showing present position of English fleet; Admiral Sir John Jellicoe and latest torpedo boat destroyer to be added to his fleet.

Ready at a moment's notice to pounce upon the German fleet should it emerge from its haven behind Heligoland, the mighty British armada under the command of Admiral Sir John Jellicoe is waiting for its rendezvous in the Shetland islands. In this fleet are every kind of craft—monster super-dreadnoughts, long, gaunt battle cruisers; low-lying, tigerish-looking torpedo boats and destroyers, and submarines, with their gasoline tanks filled to the brim and torpedoes in their tubes, waiting to attack "from the depths below," unseen and unsuspected.

DESTRUCTIVE FIRE SWEEPS CHAMPAIGN; LOSS A HALF MILLION

Flames Wipe Out Entire Business Block in Illinois City With Estimated Loss of $390,000.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Champaign, Ill., March 17.—The business section of Champaign was threatened with destruction by fire which, within an hour after it started, had destroyed the Morrissey building, a tall office structure, and had attacked many other buildings.

A high wind carried the flames across the street and to adjoining buildings. The Price block, opposite the Morrissey building, and the Odd Fellows' temple, south of the Morrissey building, caught fire, and many smaller structures.

Firemen from surrounding cities were asked to aid the Champaign fire department.

The fire was discovered in the Morrissey building shortly before seven o'clock. At 8:30 the Leader Dry Goods company, the Bowman jewelry store, the Twin City Printing & Binding company, the Terwilliger Brothers' hardware store, and the Wear-Well Shoe company had been destroyed. The entire block bounded on the Lewis street, on the east by Walnut, on the north by Taylor, and on the south by Chester, had been wiped out.

For a time the fire threatened the entire business district of the city, but was finally brought under control after the flames had destroyed property estimated to be worth $500,000.

The Morrissey building, occupied by the Lewis & Clark department store, was a large structure with ground with a loss estimated to exceed $200,000. The interior of the Price block across the street was swept by the flames. The Odd Fellows' temple, a large structure just south of the Morrissey building, was saved after a hard fight. High winds carried blazing wreckage rods away from the fire and kept the firemen busy proceeding nearby buildings.

The local firemen were aided by men and apparatus from nearby cities.

URGE FREIGHT RATE ADVANCE TO ROADS

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Chicago, March 17.—The advance on freight rates on hay at 2 cents a hundred pounds on shipments from Iowa, Kansas, Oklahoma and Nebraska to Chicago, were urged before Interstate Commerce Commission Daniels today in a hearing of the 41 western railroads for increases of rates.

F. P. Eymann, assistant traffic manager of Chicago Northwestern railway, testified that hay was one of the commodities in the hauling of which the railroad was losing money. Mr. Eymann said that the total annual increase would be provided by the proposed increase on hay.

"The proposed rates," said Mr. Eymann, "are no higher than the rate proved by the commission for Minnesota, Wisconsin and South Dakota. A comparison also shows that the proposed charges from western territory to Chicago are no higher, but are practically the same as rates for similar distances from Chicago eastward, although the density of traffic east of Chicago is much greater. Thus from Watertown, South Dakota, to Chicago, 538 miles, the proposed rate is 25c a hundred, while from Sandusky, N. Y., 539 miles, where the traffic is denser, the present rate is 27 1/2c.

"A small proportion of the car capacity is used for hay, compared with other commodities, hay occupying only 3 1/2% of the car capacity, while for other products of agriculture the proportion is 59%."

C. C. P. Ranch, assistant general freight agent of the Missouri Pacific road gave similar testimony.

SUBMARINE WRECKS TWO BRITISH SHIPS

STEAMER ATLANTA TORPEDOED ON SUNDAY OFF WEST COAST OF IRELAND.

SIX LIVES ARE LOST

Members of Crew of Coast Steamer Fingal Are Drowned When Boat Goes Down Monday Morning.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] London, March 17.—Official announcement was made today that the British steamers Atlanta and Fingal had been torpedoed.

The standard shipping record contains no mention of British sailing ship or steamer named Atlanta. They do, however, mention the British steamer Fingal. This vessel was built in 1894, was of 661 tons and 280 feet long. She was owned in Scotland and was engaged in the coasting trade.

The text of the communication follows: "The British steamer Atlanta, 519 tons, owned by Mrs. J. and P. Hutchison of Glasgow, was torpedoed by a German submarine off Inishurk, on the west coast of County Galway, Ireland, about noon of March 14. The crew was landed at Inishurk Island and the vessel is now in the harbor."

"The British steamer Fingal, 1262 gross tons, 661 net tons, owned by the London-Edinburgh Shipping company of Leith, Scotland, was torpedoed and sunk at 10:50 a. m. March 15, off Northern Ireland. Twenty-one members of her crew were landed at North Shields. About six lives reported to have been lost, including the mate and the stewardess."

Survivors Landed.

North Shields, Eng., March 17.—The survivors of the Fingal were landed here today. They declare the casualties on board were due to the fact that the vessel went down before the starboard boat could be freed. The Fingal, as she sank, dragged this boat under with her, leaving the occupants, including the captain, struggling in the water. The survivors picked up the captain and several others, but six men lost their lives.

The Fingal was proceeding in a northerly direction with fine weather, when she was struck with a German torpedo. She at once began to settle and went down quickly.

ARE HELD FOR ARSON FOR BURNING HOMES

Racine Couple Buy Two Homes, Both of Which Were Damaged by Fire—Police Save Third Home.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Racine, March 17.—Carl Mueller and his wife, who came to Racine a few months ago, were arrested today on the charge of arson.

Since their arrival here, they purchased two homes, both of which were damaged by fire of a peculiar origin. In one house they bought furniture amounting to $100 on a time contract, and had it insured for several times its value.

On information furnished the police, in which it was intimated that one of the Mueller houses was to be burned Tuesday night, the police investigated the premises. Detectives who searched the premises Tuesday night, during the absence of Mr. and Mrs. Mueller, found lighted candles on an oil-soaked floor, with fuses attached to inflammable material, also soaked in oil. The entire interior of the house was in such a condition that the lighted candles, extinguished by the police, would have destroyed the place almost before the fire department arrived.

AMERICANS KILLED BY MEXICANS LAST NIGHT NEAR BORDER

Town of Dwyer Is Raided By Bandits Who Kill at Every Turn—Escape Across Border.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Santa Fe, New Mexico, March 17.—Several Americans were reported killed in a battle with Mexican bandits who raided the town of Dwyer in Grant county, southeast of Silver City last night. The Mexicans escaped, and at last accounts were heading for the border with a reinforced posse from Grant and Luna counties riding hard to head them off.

The Mexicans rode into Dwyer and robbed the store of Frank Palmer of a considerable sum, twenty high power repeating rifles and 1000 rounds of ammunition. After shooting in all directions so as to terrorize the inhabitants of the town, the raiders rode southward, heading for the border.

A posse was organized at Dwyer, and after a chase of thirty miles overhauled the Mexicans. George Dwyer, a local justice and another member of the posse whose name has not been learned were killed. Albert Tidwell is reported missing.

The Dwyer posse did not succeed in stopping the Mexicans, who continued their flight southward. Sheriff McGrath of Grant County was notified by telegraph and formed a fresh posse.

Villa's Representative.

Washington, March 17.—Enrique C. Lorente, representative here of General Villa, conferred with Secretary Bryan today on the killing of John B. McManus, an American in Mexico City by Zapata troops. He assured the secretary on strength of a message from General Villa, the proper reparation would be made.

The situation at Progresso was summarized in this statement by the state department: "Advices from Vera Cruz dated March 16, state that much alarm existed in Progresso, an outpost of fear of the insurgent forces. Foreigners there have made a request for asylum on U. S. warships. In company with the chief of staff at the American consulate at Vera Cruz, a representative of the department of state called at the foreign offices in regard to the situation at Progresso. Assurances were given. General Carranza and an order issued immediately to his chief in command to give full protection to foreigners' lives and property."

Other official dispatches were thus summarized: "The department is in receipt of a dispatch dated March 16, from Eagle Pass, stating that General Hernandez in response to request for protection has sent 200 troops back to Piedras Negras, from the town. It is stated that as a result the city is quiet."

Consul Silliman, at Vera Cruz, reported today that General Carranza had agreed to cooperate in providing transportation for Americans and other foreigners wishing to leave Mexico City, and to facilitate the transportation of Red Cross supplies to the Mexican capital.

WERE NOT FORCIBLY HELD ON FREDERICK

Former Members of Crew on U. S. Ship Frye, Claim They Were Willing to Fight With Germans.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Newport News, March 17.—Charles Frank and Robert Rogge, former members of crew of American sailing ship Wm. E. Frye, sunk in South Atlantic by German auxiliary cruiser, Prinz Eitel Friedrich and who were said to be held on the cruiser against their will for military service, made a deposition today denying that they had been held forcibly.

The men said that they considered themselves refugees from the sinking ship subject to military service under the German flag which they were willing to reply.

STATE TREASURER GIVES VIEWS FOR REDUCING TAXES

Henry Johnson Does Not Believe in Vexing Too Much Appointive Power to State Officials. (SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Madison, March 17.—State Treasurer Henry Johnson, in his statement issued today, gives pertinent views on the reduction of state expenses and the reducing of the state tax levy and correcting of the administration problems that confront the state lawmakers. While Johnson's views are not strictly in harmony with those of Governor Philipp, they are interesting to the public of the state and contain valuable views that would tend to untangle the evils caused by past legislatures.

In his statement relative to the tax levy and other matters pertaining to taxation, State Treasurer Henry Johnson strongly disapproves the suggestion that tax levying be taken from the legislature and vested in state officers or other constitutional officials. He says the commission of state, for example, responsibility in the levying or remitting of taxes he believes is a departure from the constitutional prerogative rightly belonging to the legislature.

Mr. Johnson makes a number of suggestions on ways of simplifying these administrative problems, as follows: "Do not make the capitol an experiment station."

"Do not place all the responsibility upon the governor and provide that even by the advice and consent of the senate, which, in many instances, means that a man is blacklisted before he enters upon his duties."

"Make the commission elective, compelling them to give an account of their stewardship to the people every two years instead of a long appointment covering six or eight years. This will help to keep down expenses. Our Wisconsin people are intelligent and know how to vote."

Classify salaries in the different departments for there is no reason for paying from 15 to 20 per cent more in one department than in another for the same class of work.

"Repeal the civil service or create a new bureau."

"Do away with the fiscal year June 30th."

"Make the legislative levy the state tax as the constitution provides as was the practice for years. Do not leave it to administration officers to remit taxes or increase taxes. Let the legislature name the exact sum to be levied and take its constitutional responsibility."

"Do away with the state treasury agent's office and transfer that department to the secretary of state, thereby avoiding duplication and saving about $30 a year."

"In fact simplify the state department so that the average man may understand it and think that it is for the people's sake."

Mr. Johnson takes up recent criticisms concerning the last tax levy. He says:

"Does anyone wish to convey the impression to the general public that letters signed by the university, the normal school regents, the state board of public affairs, the state board of correction and others, signed early in the spring and filed with Gov. McGovern, were for political purposes? It may be well for the newspapers to concede as a matter of fact that the McGovern, which was issued to the press of the state and in which he refused to call a special session, in that statement he outlined the tax levy for the fall of 1914. There was no secret about it. It was a plain statement, showing that the previous legislature had made appropriations very liberally. It was a statement by which the legislature of the tax levy I am willing to take my share of the responsibility with the secretary of state. However, again deny that this was done for the purpose of securing votes. It was simply a business proposition to give this legislature a chance to look into this matter of appropriations."

"If the record of this legislature so far is any indication, it bears out and shows that we were right in withholding these appropriations. The assembly has voted and rejected the appropriations for $350,000 and the senate has voted to repeal the appropriations for $50,000 for a government building in Milwaukee, and no doubt, there will be more of this kind of thing. It is a business proposition to give this legislature a chance to look into this matter of appropriations."

Following that, rules for the guidance of the corporation will be promulgated, and a public hearing at which business men may present their views may be decided upon.

GOVERNOR PHILIPP EXPLAINS HIS PLAN TO INSURE ECONOMY

CONSOLIDATION OF ALLIED DEPARTMENTS AND COMMISSIONS WILL EFFECT BIG SAVING.

TALKS ON EDUCATION

Educational System Is Top-Heavy, He Charges. With Too Much Attention Paid to the State University.

..... Governor Philipp's view of the needs of business was expressed at the close of his talk at a banquet at the M. C. Hotel. Business can be built only by encouragement, carefully laid plans, and the business man must not be looked upon as a common enemy. His utterance in that regard was as follows: "Business cannot survive in an atmosphere of suspicion and distrust and constant opposition. Business is the life of enterprise and encouragement and confidence of the future. It must build and lay its plans far ahead and be upheld by a faith in the 'roses' of the future. You cannot expect a state to prosper when enterprise is frowned upon and business is considered to be something nefarious and the business man a common enemy. Men of brains and energy, there, youth will direct its footsteps somewhere else, for youth is always looking for opportunity. Capital will not come there, and jealous and suspicious and meddlesome obstruction never made a great commonwealth or a prosperous country town."

Governor Emanuel L. Philipp was the guest last evening of the Janesville Commercial and Twilight clubs at a banquet at the M. C. Hotel. In his address he outlined some of the measures with which he proposes to insure greater economy in state government, thus fulfilling his promise made to the people of Wisconsin last fall. He told of his plan to consolidate allied commissions and departments and of his intention to cut down the state expenditures for state printing. He talked pointedly of the relation of business to government and expressed the hope that he might aid in restoring confidence in the state government and industrial activity in this state. Finally he talked on the subject of education, urging that the common and the rural schools be given a larger place in the present system, and he suggested several remedies which will help in raising the elementary schools to the place which they should occupy in the minds of the people.

"I come to you to report on what I am doing as governor of Wisconsin," said Governor Philipp in beginning his address, "and it is right that you should know what has been done and what we seek to accomplish. I didn't accept the office for the paltry salary that is connected with it. I took the position because I thought I could do some good for the people of Wisconsin."

Discuss Economy Issue.

"One of the leading problems which confronts us at Madison is the question of economy. The campaign of last fall and I was elected upon the promise that I would work in the interests of greater economy in the administration of the state's affairs. That is the promise I have made to the people who have elected me. We are making some headway and we are going to make more. Of course, the men have a fixed income they have to live on, so it is natural that our progress of economy met with opposition when we arrived in Madison and every department could give suggestions as to how expenditures could be reduced. But the men holding appointive offices didn't help us much; they were not enthusiastic over our plans and they didn't give us much encouragement. I was not our purpose to destroy that which has been built. We purpose to help and not to injure. One of the main objections was the number of commissions. Commissioners have been multiplied and administrative offices were merely perfunctory. The power was with the commissions who were responsible to no one. Each board secures its appropriation out of the state treasury, and the legislature to give, spent the money, each audited its own accounts, and then appeared before the next legislature asking for larger funds. Since this has been our rule, our first proposition was to reduce the commissions. It is a tremendous task to pull apart the legislation of fifteen years, sifting out the good from the bad and then to do it in a day, but what we seek to accomplish along this line is as follows:

Consolidation Program.

"First, consolidate into one board or commission the following departments: the department of forestry, the fish commission, the fish and game department and the state park board. A bill with this as its purpose will be reported to the legislature out of committee within a few days. It will affect a saving of $100,000 annually to the people of Wisconsin. Each of these departments can be made large."

Question of Population in War Nations is Serious One

Paris, March 17.—The Academy of Moral and Political Sciences has just asked the French government to take up at once its most serious problem that will result from the war—that of the population of Europe.

The Academy has pointed out that the war ends a minimum of 2,000,000 men at the very least will have been killed. The crisis which Europe will then face for its re-population will be without a parallel in the world's history.

The Academy has already pledged to the government its most profound and exhaustive study of the situation. While it is the intention of the members eventually to take up the problem in its application to all the countries stricken by the war, they for the moment will confine their efforts to the problem as it is presented in France.

That France will be the country that will face the most serious place of the situation is already recognized. For years even before the war France's birth rate had decreased to a point where it was exceeded by the deaths. Now with hundreds of thousands of her men most capable of reproducing the kind being killed, the situation is recognized to have been aggravated to a degree where only the most radical, unanimous and exhaustive measures on the part not only of the French government but of the entire French people are going to be necessary in order to insure the continuity of the French race.

As yet the Academy has suggested no measures to the government except the immediate revision of all legislation on the subject. The academy, however, has given a superficial glance which it has already given to the subject declares that the minimum motto which France can adopt and hope to prevent the gradual obliteration from the face of the earth of the French people is "Three children for every family."

The condition entailed by the war renders this an imperative necessity. The academy also has asked the government to effect a complete change in the policy of its laws on this subject. Instead of enacting measures with the end in view of forcing families to have children, it is urged that the laws tend rather to make it possible for parents to have children by reducing for them the economic burden of bringing them up.

As the laws now stand, it is asserted that the larger a man's family is the more taxes, duties and other contributions he is obliged to

ADMINISTRATION OF COMPENSATION LAW BY COURTS OPPOSED

Senator Sanborn Has Objections to Gov. Philipp's Plan—Does Not Favor Increase in Benefits.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)
Madison, Wis., March 17.—Former State Senator A. W. Sanborn, who as chairman of the committee that drafted the workmen's compensation act, spent five years investigating the subject, and has just returned from a proposal to turn a part of the administration over to the county courts, in an address before the legislative committee, considering the legislation, incidentally Senator Sanborn read his opposition to the Burke and Hart bills to increase the amount of compensation. He said that with all workmen's compensation act, one year trial had been given the law that this was not sufficient to predicate the justice of an increase of the amount of compensation at this time.

Workmen Get Benefit.
Senator Sanborn said that the benefits to workmen of the compensation act had gone far beyond the expectations. Under the old liability system in one year it required $82 of an employer's money to carry $12 of an employee's money. He said that the courts and lawyers got more than the injured man. He expressed the opinion that the greatest amount ever paid for compensation in Wisconsin under the old law was $200,000 compared with $120,000 paid in Wisconsin last year under the workmen's compensation law.

"I am deeply opposed to the plan that is being talked about of turning the initial work under the compensation acts over to the courts," declared Senator Sanborn. "The great benefit of workmen's compensation of the law by a commission permits immediate settlement, when people are in the greatest need. If you have court administration you will have to wait your turn. Moreover, when you talk about courts you talk about lawyers. It means that that every injured man will be compelled to have a lawyer to represent him in court. It means extra expense to the county and to the state."

Senator Sanborn then said that the past year could not be judged as a criterion of the amount of compensation. He said that the manufacture of the state were passing through a period of depression and it would be futile to further burden them at this time.

Compensation High Enough.
H. W. Bolens of Port Washington opposed the passage of the Senator Burke and Hart bills to increase the rate of compensation. He said that the Wisconsin law was already one of three compensation laws in the United States that gave a relatively large compensation and that in most of the states the rate of compensation was lower. He did not think this burden should be placed upon the manufacturer at this time. He said that in 1914 it was $961, and that in 1915 it was $961, and that in 1916 it was $961.

Chairman Charles H. Crownhart of the industrial commission said that the commission favored the passage of the Weber bill, which would increase the death benefit in certain cases. Under the present law the death benefit is four times the average annual wage, but not exceeding $3,000. It sometimes happens that a young man starts out to work and is killed within a few weeks. The law at present would give his mother no compensation. This, Chairman Crownhart thought, should be changed. It would not affect more than half a dozen cases annually, but these would be meritorious.

Giving Notice of Injury.
Mr. Bolens asked Mr. Crownhart why the contract was opposed to a written request from an injured employee for medical attention. Chairman Crownhart said that of the 250,000 employees in the state not more than 10,000 were posted on the features of the workmen's compensation act and that when a man is injured it is no time to place the burden on pay to the state. The Academy asks also the immediate revival of an old law which was suppressed in 1885. It provided that every family with seven children had the right to have at least one of these brought up at the expense of the state. The Academy insists that even a larger application of this law would be justifiable under the present conditions.

The Academy also asks that all employment under the government be given on a graded scale to the father, if he has a family. Scholarships and other help from the state is urged on behalf of the children.

In making these suggestions to the French government, the Academy admits that these are merely the first fruits of the most superficial glance over the situation. That situation, however, is so serious that it declares the government must begin at once seizing upon every possible straw that can help to solve the problem.

Later the Academy proposes to evolve measures on a much broader basis that will be applicable not only to France but to the other countries that will have been depopulated by the war.

In All The World No Trip Like This

It's almost a man's duty as an educational process, to take his family, with the railroad fares to California, to visit the great Exposition at San Francisco and San Diego, seeing on the way out the marvelous Mountain Scenery of Colorado, Denver, Colorado Springs, Pike's Peak, Pueblo, the stupendous and wonderful Gorge, and Salt Lake City. Then you should return by way of the North Pacific Coast and either Glacier or Yellowstone National Park. You will never have the same opportunity and if you use the through Pullman service of the Burlington Route (C. & N. W. R. R.) or join one of those comfortable, economical and care-free Personal Conducted Excursions, you can see the wonders of Colorado without extra cost, for you will pass all those most interesting points by daylight. Don't forget that. Here's the ideal. Sit right down and write me how many you expect to make the trip, just when you want to go, the points you want to visit, how long you expect to stay, and I will plan a trip especially fitted to your time and when you will know all about it. If you decide to go, I will make the arrangements for your complete trip, and reserve sleeping berths, when the time comes for you to start. Write today—before you forget it. J. Frank P. R. him of notifying the company that he is injured and must have a physician.

A. Van Scoy, representing the Merchants' and Manufacturers' association of Milwaukee, was opposed to the increase in compensation, but favored an amendment to the present law which would give the commission power to pass on and allow the amount of physicians' and hospital bills. He said that the simple act of these had increased four-fold since the law went into effect. John W. Maple of the same organization said that the cost of accidents was more under the present plan than under the old common law liability system. Taking into account medical attention more than a full wage is paid the injured, he said.

FINE NEW STORE IS OPENED TO PUBLIC

Outlay of $25,000 in Improvements Makes Golden Eagle a Big City Establishment.

After two months spent in remodeling and improving the building on Milwaukee street, the Golden Eagle department store was opened to the public today. The new store is a fine example of modern architecture, and the outlay of $25,000 in improvements has made it a big city establishment.

The last two months have been strenuous ones at the store and work has been rushed so that every detail might be complete for the formal opening. The store now includes the space formerly occupied by the Golden Eagle and the dry goods store, and a floor space of 15,000 square feet. The new store is a fine example of modern architecture, and the outlay of $25,000 in improvements has made it a big city establishment.

EXTEND TRIAL PERIOD FOR CITIES OPERATING UNDER COMMISSION PLAN

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)
Madison, Wis., March 17.—Members of the senate committee on cities agreed that two years is pretty short time to try out a commission form of government, so amended the Culbertson bill, making the trial period four years. The bill now perfects the legal process by which cities operating under the commission form may return to the old form by a vote of the electors after the system has been in operation at least four years. The committee recommended the adoption of the amendment and passage of the bill. Senator Culbertson said that certain citizens of Appleton, a commission governed city, in his district, wanted the machinery for the change provided, so he introduced the bill. He said Senator Baxter had been asked by Superior to favor such a measure. It was the sense of the commissionmen that the trial period was not too long to insure that a city might vote to return to the old form.

EVANSVILLE MAN HELD ON BURGLARY CHARGE

John Scott of Evansville, was arraigned before Judge H. L. Maxfield in the court yesterday afternoon on the charge of burglary during the day-time, the complaint of which was made by F. W. Gilman, marshal at Evansville. It is alleged that Scott broke into the restaurant, owned by Lyle and Luther Graham, yesterday. The defendant demanded an examination and in default of five hundred dollars he was committed to the county jail until his hearing.

RITCHIE SHOWS OLD TIME CHAMPIONSHIP FORM IN NEW YORK

American Lightweight 'Licks' Champ Welsh Badly According to New York Reports.
(By Strikes.)

England's supremacy in the lightweight division secured a terrible jolt when Willie Ritchie, fighting the battle of his career, landed Freddie Welsh, the world's champion, a trouncing in every round of the ten they fought recently. Reports from New York show that Welsh was not outpointed this time but he was licked, and licked good. Ritchie gave the experts a surprise which was a pleasant one. Had Welsh kept his promise and slugged toe to toe as he promised or fought openly, he would surely have lost his title through a knockout. The Ritchie New York men say, showed wonderful cleverness, but it was all on the defense. The former custodian of the lightweight title gave his successor a willing battle but Welsh pursued the tactics which he won the world's champion looked like a one punch fighter, one report states it was always "take a punch and clinch." The further the fight proceeded the harder Ritchie tried to fight, and after his first onslaught Welsh held tighter than a straight jacket and hung on like a bad cold. The American fought wide open in hopes of getting Welsh to lead and his willingness to run the risk won Ritchie the favor of the New York fans.

After Ritchie showed the champ he still had his old punch by bobbing his head back with short uppercuts Welsh ducked for shelter. Ritchie's wonderful cleverness to avoid punishment and took to galloping when he was not clinching. The ex-champ was in perfect condition for he never slackened his pace and did not step back once during the clinching he, being master all the way.

BATTLING BUFFEDS EXPECT GOOD YEAR

Buffalo Federal's Promise to Make a Strong Bid for Pennant Honors This Year.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
Buffalo, March 17.—Larry Schafly and his crew of battlin' Buffeds are going to put in a mighty stiff bid for Jim Gilmore's pennant this season. On paper they look about as strong as any club in the league and should, if the dope holds good, be there biting the leaders' heels all the way. Buffalo is certainly putting for them to perform thusly and is rather expecting it.

The team was a good one last year, a pennant winner, but in their battling the pace seters and it has been strengthened quite a bit during the winter's raiding. Depend on Ford.
A great deal of the Buffeds' chances for the pennant rests on Russell Ford, one time Yankee, and the best finger in the third league last season. Ford's comeback was one of the features of the late mentioned 1914. He bowled 'em over right and left, winning 21 and losing only six. Hugh Bedient was added to the staff during the winter. He's a good pitcher, no one can deny that, not even Belligerent Byron Bancroft Johnson from whose back yard he hurred. These two, in form, are going to prove mighty strong arguments against elevated batting averages.

Another pitcher whom Schafly is expecting much of is Howard Ehmeke, a coast youngster. The boy comes with a mighty sweet record for his first year as a professional. His first shot at league ball last season was with Los Angeles and he pitched forty games, winning 21 and losing 15. Not exactly rotten for a rookie. Fred Anderson, Gene Krapp, Helme Schultz, were all with the Buffeds last year and did creditable work. Completing the staff are Robert Brown and Courtney Woodman, two recruits.

Have Old Catchers.
Nick Allen and Walter Blair, both with the last season, form the receiving corps. The Buffeds look a little weak in this department as neither man got above 240 in the batting marks last season. Schafly looks pretty strongly fortified in the infield and outfield. On first base he has the incomparable Hal Chase. The Prince doesn't need any of this. "We have with us tonight 'stunt' to introduce him. Suffice it to say he stung the Federals' ball last season for 354 and picked 'em off around the corner for a fielding total of 981.

Bill Loudon, who played second bag last season, will undoubtedly fill in again. He is steady with the bat, hanging up a .313 mark last season. For third there are Bill Roach, probably, and Smith. Roach leaped from the Buffalo International, then did a Walter Johnson back, so his case is sort of up in the air. Engle will play short, it is presumed.

The addition of Jack Dalton, late of the Dodgers, to the outfield is going to make it compare favorably with any in the league. The "curse-broke" Jack was considered easily one of the best outfielders in the National League last season, batting .319, and should increase that mark in the Federal circuit. Dalton probably will take the center field. Jow Agler, all around man, will be on one side of him and Charley McDonald on the other. McDonald, by the way, is no slouch with the big gun. He slung the ball for .319 last season. All told, Buffalo fans are settling back prepared to watch a rattlin' good fight for the pennant, with fair chance of seeing their favorite romp home in the lead—or very close thereto.

L. NICKERSON WINS FRED GILBERT CUP FROM LARGE FIELD

Winner and W. E. Lawyer Tied in Tourney With Score of 87, No. 1.

Louis Nickerson won the Fred Gilbert trophy from a field of fifteen trap shooters at the "Gilbert" tourney held by the Janesville Gun club yesterday at their grounds on North Washington street. When the trapmen, with their handicaps, completed the hundred target event, Nickerson and W. E. Lawyer were tied for high guns, each breaking 87 out of the hundred. In the "shoot-off" for twenty targets, Nickerson broke 13 and Lawyer 17, giving Nickerson the loving cup put up by the club in honor of the twentieth anniversary of Fred Gilbert as the world's greatest trap shot.

It was an ideal day for trap shooting and every nimrod enjoyed the event greatly, it being the first important shoot this season. Lack of practice prevented high scores, but all the men performed in good form. The scores were as follows:

Shot at	Broke

BELOIT GAME TO BE PLAYED AT MILTON SATURDAY EVENING

Both Schools Will Probably Run Special Trains—Bitter Struggle Will Commence Promptly at 7:30

Both the Janesville and Beloit high school principals and basketball coaches came to an agreement last evening by telephone, to playing the elimination game between the two school teams at the Milton College gymnasium on Saturday evening of this week, the contest to take place promptly at seven-thirty, to allow the teams and followers to get home the same night. The large gym at Milton was hired last evening for this bitter struggle, that is bound to result, if past contests are to be taken as any criterion.

It is likely that both schools will charter special trains or special cars. Since the Janesville crowd can go to Milton on the 4:40 train, by having two coaches attached, they can save the expense of a special train or a guarantee for the same. On the other hand, Beloit will not have as good connections, unless they come to Janesville on the interurban cars and take the 4:40 train along with the Beloit City rooters. No less than 600 rooters from both cities are expected to attend this struggle, that means much for both schools. It means perhaps more to the Beloit school, since this is the first year in the history of the state elimination schedules that any one of their teams has had a chance to enter. Janesville regards this game as her hardest struggle of the year, and is out after a clean-out victory.

The floor at Milton is of about the same size as the spacious tournament armory floor at Appleton. It will benefit the winning team greatly. The gymnasium at Milton can accommodate about six hundred onlookers nicely, and it is anticipated that people will be forced to fight for room Saturday night. Whether a band can be secured by the Janesville students is not yet known, but a ten piece musical organization would be a big help.

SECURE TWO SPECIAL CARS TO TOURNAMENT

High School Students Charter Additional Coaches to Carry Big Crowd to Meet Thursday Evening

Janesville high school students are "wide awake" over the final outcome of the Milton tournament. Through the efforts of several of the students, a petition calling for two special cars, which in the final analysis means a special train, to the tourney Thursday night, the final night, has been signed by nearly three hundred students and alumni.

The additional coaches will be coupled to the rear of the passenger that leaves the St. Paul station tomorrow afternoon at four-forty o'clock, arriving at Milton at five o'clock. The coaches will be taken off the regular passenger at Milton, and held until after the final game, when they will be waiting for the passengers at the depot attached to the caboose and engine, that make up the night "dog run."

With Branch Rickey having tamed Bill James, Federal way declining to sign up Boston Bill James and Frank James dead, the James family promises to be rather quiet this year.

GUNBOAT SMITH IS BEATEN BY DILLON

Hoocher! Middloweight "Shows-Up" White Hope in Tame Bout at Milwaukee Last Night

Milwaukee, March 17.—Some idea of how a gunboat looks against a submarine was shown here last night when an ex-sailor by the name of Smith, with gunboat hug on his monicker, met Jack Dillon, ten pounds lighter, who is ambitious to become a heavy-weight. He was the submarine and he beat the large craft to a frazzle.

From a standpoint of fighting it was a tame affair, for the submarine had all the best of the going as regards speed and this edge enabled him to stop all around Smith. Smith never had a chance for his big gun, a right hand swing, never came within a mile of its mark, whereas the submarine, working in close, hammered away at the midsection and piled up enough points to win six ordinary bouts. Dillon showed from the start that he intended making an in-fight of it, for this style enabled him to keep inside the gunner's wild swings, while he kept tailoring the body with right and left jabs, which, as early as the fourth round, had Smith's body rosy red. The latter's style seemed to be wilder, and he was helpless before Hooper's attack for three rounds before he got in one really clean blow. At boxing Hoocher Jack had all the best of the argument, despite his opponent's long reach and extra weight. Dillon worked in and out, hardly ever getting a wallop. In the third round when Smith began to feel the effect of the body wallops, Jack shot up a left hook to the jaw, spinning Smith around on one foot. Gunboat here, but Jack's speed enabled him to dodge these blows, although the Tar did get in one hard right to the head before Dillon slowed up sufficiently for him to get his bearings.

SPECTACLED PITCHER IS REGULAR IRON MAN

Henry Meadows, the Cardinal pitcher who wears glasses while pitching and batting, had a record as an iron man in the North Carolina league last season. Several scouts heard of his great work, but when they saw his spectacles they passed him up—all but Scout Conroy of the Cards, who watched Meadows win a double header, 10 to 0 and 5 to 0, come back on Monday with a 2 to 0 one-hit game and on Wednesday with a 3 to 0 two-hit contest. Meadows also claims he wore his glasses while playing half-back on his high school eleven, declaring he was never hurt. Meadows won nineteen and lost twelve games.

Captain G. W. Williamson, of University of Pittsburgh, speaks of the amended football rules in the Yale News, as follows:
"I should like to see the penalty increased, where a player who is endeavoring to catch a punt or a forward pass is tackled before he has caught the ball. Until the player has fairly caught the ball he is off his guard and can easily be severely injured by a hard tackle, whether the tackle be made accidentally or intentionally."

P. A. has Pipe-Joy Hog-tied and Branded

Thousands of men have laid away their old jimmy pipes because they could no longer endure the tongue broiling that is the dull afterglow of the usual smoke-fest. These men are coming back to the fold in droves daily, because Prince Albert has solved the smoke problem for all pipe sufferers for all time. You can go to like a wife for a new bonnet—continuous and determined—but you can't make it burn your tongue. And that's so, because P. A. is made by a patented process that eliminates tobacco bite.

Makin's cigarettes rolled from P. A. are paper smokes of first quality—none better.

You can buy Prince Albert in the tidy red tin, 10¢; tippy red bag, 5¢; in powder and half-pound tin tins and the powder crystal-glass humidor at all stores that sell tobacco.

And nail this: Sooner you get your P. A. in that tidy 16-oz. crystal-glass humidor with a sponge in the lid to keep the tobacco pipe-fit, sooner you'll know the joys of always fresh smokes!

FACTS, NOT FANCIES.

"In South America there has recently been an awakening to the importance of getting more reliable news from the United States. So, also, in the northern country the desire is spreading for complete and authentic information from the southern Americas. It is because the demand is arising for such an intellectual rapprochement between widely separated sections of the western world that too much care cannot be shown in the selection of constructive news for perusal by the peoples of the American republics," says the Christian Science Monitor.

"Where at one time scarcely any notable event in the United States short of a presidential election was considered worthy of mention in South America, when the tide turned and more news was wanted, there came a leaning toward affairs such as made for sensationalism when put into print. Rather than publish matter that conveys not the true meaning as to the actual conditions in the north, it would seem better that the South American newspaper should remain silent.

"Sensational happenings in the United States that are set forth for South American readers are, perhaps, on a par with the overworked account of revolutions below Panama. To be sure, revolutionary activity in the southern countries is not yet extinct. And it seems perfectly proper that these affairs should be duly chronicled, that they may be corrected more readily when exposed to the criticism of civilization. Yet South and Central Americans are very sensitive on account of these often overdrawn reports. Must it not, then, be equally distasteful to the people of the United States to see this constant reporting of the sensational in the south? That the fault lies not wholly with the editors in South America is indicated by the fact that those journalistic experts devote the greater part of their pages to the worth-while things in literature, in art and music, in international politics.

From Europe, the correspondence is of a distinct literary flavor, leading men furnishing regular letters on the chief events in the world abroad. Of course, at present the great war takes precedence over all other things, but under normal conditions the Spanish and Portuguese newspapers, respectively, of Buenos Aires and Rio de Janeiro are conducted with a dignity that well-nigh places them beyond reproach.

"It is the news from the United States that appears to have been handled carelessly. Already, however, a much better state of affairs is seen. The discovery has been made in South America that for people to get the South American viewpoint there should be a native of that soil to present it. Even though the environment is at first a strange one, for that very reason the correspondent will be almost certain to strike the telling note to send his paper something in which its readers are interested.

"It is easy enough to seize upon news of the happening of the hour to send it forth as it is and to let the consequences be what they may. A month or so later that account reaches its destination. In the north the affair has been forgotten, but in South America it flares up in the translation, garb that is accentuated by such words as 'great events,' 'then, ask the South American readers, 'in the republic of the north?' Is it any wonder that wrong impressions gain headway?

"The peoples of all the Americas now want facts, not fancies. There is no greater field for useful service in this direction than in making the newspapers reflect the progressive, uplifting incident of the hour, whether north or south."

THE PLAIN TRUTH.

No one who heard Governor Philipp make his report on the state affairs at the Commercial and Twilight clubs' dinner Tuesday evening, can doubt the sincerity of the man. There was no oratorical display, no theatrical effects, no tearing of hair, no waving of arms, no choking and tearing of the collar, no choked-up words, poured with a "gallery" to applaud, just a plain statement of existing conditions by our Governor. A talk by a business man to business men. It was not a tirade against this or that existing evil. Not a cry of the masses against the classes but an explanation of what was being done to ameliorate the conditions. A report of what the real conditions in the state are, conditions with all the gloss of reform washed away, and how the Governor and the legislature planned to remedy the existing evils.

Governor Philipp did not mince words. He did not seek to enlarge on the defects of the present system of government but showed that by consolidation of various allied commissions in compact departments, the saving of thousands of dollars can be saved the state annually. The efficiency of the service increased, and the form of management simplified and made more businesslike. Tele-scoping twenty various commissions into four departments with capable men at the head of them, men named for their real worth not for political purposes is a big undertaking but the Governor explained it so much in detail that it not seems possible but probable.

His defense of the little school house at the cross roads, his criticism of the expenditure of large sums, reaching into the millions, for higher education at the expense of the small schools, was timely. He explained he did not believe in curtailing the effectiveness of the state university, thought that it should have all the money the state could afford to expend to make it one of the best institutions of learning in the country but should not waste money to make it the largest. He explained that he was not seeking to displace President Van Hise, for whom he had the greatest respect, but believed that he—as Governor—should guard the peoples interests by protesting against waste of the tax payers money.

One particular significant statement was that which went home to his hearers with a snap when he said that the duties of the higher institutions of learning was to teach citizenship, conformation to the constitution and not to follow the "red flag." Behind this statement is a fact not brought out in last evening's talk. On the bulletin board in the main hall of the University is a placard, it was there this morning, announcing the address of a noted socialist at Library Hall under the auspices of the International Socialist Club of the University. Here is a state institution, supported by the taxes of the citizens of the state, permitting, yes, urging upon its students socialist doctrines. No wonder the Governor spoke as he did.

It was a statement of plain facts told in such a convincing manner that there is no question that the changes in methods of government will remedy many serious defects that now exist. The Governor, however, explained that they were not through with suggestions for changes yet. That the work of the joint investigating committee of the legislature that has unearthed all these conditions, is still holding daily sessions and later other suggestions at consolidation and along the line of economy will be made.

It was a strong virtue address. It was a message, a report, of a business man, to the stockholders of the great corporation of tax payers. It was devoid of bitterness. It lacked the usual cant of a political talk, it was just the plain unvarnished truths set forth in language that could be understood by all devoid of partisanship, notable for the absence of politics from beginning to end. The state of Wisconsin is to be congratulated in having such a man as Emanuel L. Philipp at the head of its affairs of state at this critical period in its history.

L. C. Whitett, speaker of the Assembly, in whom the residents of Rock county are justly proud, explained the financial condition of the state treasury Tuesday evening in a manner that leaves no doubt but the deficit which faces the state was a part of a political plot to discredit the present administration. However it has failed in its purpose and re-trenchment as well as a reduction of taxation will now be the duty of the republican party of Wisconsin.

The tobacco growers in various parts of the state are organizing for what they call mutual protection, and plan to sort and handle their own tobacco selling direct to the ultimate purchaser instead of through the middle man as it is now the custom.

The wearing of the bit of green color today is in honor of a nation that is arising out of the ashes of the past, a tribute to departed greatness of a people who are today one of the dominant races of the civilized globe, the Sons' and Daughters' of Erin.

The state legislature is still in session. It is doing business every day and the machinery of government has been speeded up and is now running smoothly as could be expected.

Thus far Italy has not entered the European war but maybe it will. Meanwhile Kitchener's drive has begun if we may believe reports and the fighting has just begun on the western front.

So the ground hog was right after all. Well, once in awhile Dame Nature does not make any mistakes after all.

LOCAL PEOPLE HEAR KREISLER AT BELOIT

Janesville Music Lovers Attend Pleasing Concert Last Evening—Two Special Cars From Here.

One hundred and fifty Janesville music-lovers went to Beloit last evening, in two special interurban cars, to hear Kreisler, the famous violinist, render eleven difficult and pleasing numbers to a packed house. The performance was arranged and brought to Beloit by the Treble Clef Musical club of that city. So difficult were the selections rendered that the artist was forced to answer many encores to satisfy his listeners. A true master of the violin, Kreisler displayed unusual talent and ability, and is one of the few violin artists of world-wide reputation. The Janesville people left here at seven o'clock, arriving home at eleven-thirty.

LITTLE IMPORTANT BUSINESS COMES BEFORE COMMISSION

Business of minor importance came before the city commission at their regular meeting held yesterday afternoon at the city hall. The bills for the past week totaling $2,785.96 were allowed and orders drawn for the amounts.

The bonds of W. H. Smith, to excavate streets under the provisions of the city ordinance, were approved and the license granted. The board of public works was ordered to suspend construction of sewers in districts number 11 and 14, plans for which were made on Third street and Ruger avenue. The commission held that there was no necessity for the extension at the present time.

At the present time the commissioners are formulating plans for the running of the water works and promise to have their policies for operation completed during the next fortnight. Considerable discussion is raised on the question of meters and this will be threshed out by the councilmen in the near future, the decision depending on the decision of a pending court case.

HAVE WARRANT OUT IN BELOIT FOR SHOPLIFTERS

Charles Qualman, chief of police at Beloit, Wisconsin, was in the city yesterday afternoon investigating the merchandise recovered by the police here from the three women alleged to be shoplifters. It was reported that a warrant had been issued at Beloit charging all three women with grand larceny to the amount of about one hundred dollars. As the Rockford women are out on bail this warrant could not be served and it is possible that the case will be taken before a Beloit court, in case requisition papers were obtained to take them from the state of Illinois to Wisconsin. It is understood by District Attorney Dunwiddie, however, that the Beloit police are waiting the outcome of the trial in Janesville before taking such action. It is expected District Attorney Dunwiddie will substitute a new warrant charging grand larceny in a greater amount within the next few days.

ADOPT NEUTRALITY MEASURE IN SENATE; PASS SKOGMO BILL

Reverse Decision is Reached Today Regarding Wilson's Effort—Decorate Burke's Desk in Green.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Madison, March 17.—Reversing its attitude of two weeks ago when it rejected the Bray joint resolution expressing the Wisconsin legislature sympathy with confidence in President Wilson's neutrality effort the senate today adopted a similar resolution offered by Senator W. J. Bickler, democrat, the vote being 29 to 3. Only Senators Ackley, Everett and Parry dissented.

The democratic caucus O. K'd this resolution.

The senate today unanimously adopted the resolution introduced Monday night by Senator Skogmo, memorializing the president to call a conference of the neutral nations to endeavor to effect a peaceful settlement in Europe. It was at once passed to the assembly. The measure created no discussion in upper house.

When Senator Burke, the Green Bay senator, entered the senate chamber, he found his desk transformed into a county of old Ireland. Looming high were Irish flags, emblems and flowers all surrounded by the stars and stripes.

Senator Jennings' bill declaring a half holiday on election days in Milwaukee was reported to indefinite postponement by state affairs common. The same recommendation was made for Senator Bray's joint resolution inviting Professor E. A. Gilmore to appear before the conservation committee to give advice on water power legislation.

The assembly adjourned until this evening and the senate until tomorrow.

BRAY TALKS ON WATERPOWER: REPORTERS ARE EXCLUDED

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Wis., March 17.—Making his appeal to two newspaper men, Senator Bray asked the state affairs committee of the senate for the privilege to speak in executive session on his joint resolution inviting Prof. E. A. Gilmore to meet with the conservation committee on waterpower legislation, yesterday afternoon. He said he should have some things to say on the Gilmore proposition, which might serve to embarrass the situation if made public.

Anyway, the aforesaid writers were tired of their job, listening to talk about dirty barber shops all afternoon, and thanked the senator for kicking them out.

DOINGS OF THE VAN LOONS—Yes, Father Is Getting a Taste of It.

BY F. J. LEBRON

COURAGE IS COMMON IN THIS WAR.

London, March 17.—Every Englishman knows how to die bravely. The Irish, Scotch and English soldiers face the bayonets, the machine guns as though out on dress parade. It is the men who sickened and die in trenches, or at home after an arduous campaign that our sympathy goes out to most. There are thousands of such men behind the battle lines who went to the front without the strong constitution and good pure blood to withstand the deprivations, the hardships of the campaign in Belgium and France. It is a warning that we should pay strict attention to our stomach, liver and blood. If one is all out of sorts he should take an invigorating tonic and alterative such as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery which cures diseases of the stomach and organs of digestion and nutrition. It eliminates from the blood disease breeding poisons. It makes the blood rich and pure, and furnishes a foundation for sound, physical health.

Fifty years ago, Dr. Pierce, of the 'Lancet' Hotel and Surgical Institute, at Buffalo, N. Y., found that certain barks and roots manufactured by using glycerine without the use of alcohol or opiates, made into a concentrated extract, which he called Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, made a stimulating tonic for the stomach, help the digestion and the assimilation of the food and eradicate poisons from the blood. This is nature's cure for indigestion, and by correcting the stomach, and thereby feeding the blood on pure materials, the red blood corpuscles are increased and the body established in a healthy state. No one suffers from catarrh who has plenty of red blood corpuscles and a good digestion. Catarrh in all its forms is a stagnation of the blood. Introduce pure red blood into the system by taking the 'Medical Discovery' and health is assured.—Advertisement.

Thin Men and Women

Here's a Safe Easy Way to Gain 10 to 30 lbs. of Solid, Healthy, Permanent Flesh.

Thin, nervous, undeveloped men and women everywhere are heard to say, "I can't understand why I do not get fat. I eat plenty of good, nourishing food." The reason is just this: You cannot get fat, no matter how much you eat, unless your digestive organs assimilate the fat-making elements of your food instead of passing them out through the body as waste.

What is needed is a means of gently urging the assimilative functions of the stomach and intestines to absorb the oils and fats and hand them over to the blood, where they may reach the starved, shrunken, run-down tissues and build them up. The thin person's body is like a dry sponge—eager to absorb the fatty materials of which it is being deprived by the failure of the alimentary canal to take them from the food. The best way to overcome this sinful waste of food is by building up the system and stopping the leakage of fats is to use Sargol, the recently discovered regenerative force that is recommended so highly by physicians—here and abroad. Take a little Sargol tablet with every meal and notice how quickly your cheeks fill out and rolls of firm, healthy flesh are deposited over your body, covering each bony angle and projecting point. All good druggists have Sargol, or can get it from their wholesalers, and will refund your money if you are not satisfied with the gain in weight it produces as stated on the guarantee in each package. It is inexpensive, easy to take and highly efficient.

Caution:—While Sargol has produced remarkable results in overcoming nervous dyspepsia and general stomach troubles it should not be taken unless you are willing to gain ten pounds or more for it is a wonderful flesh-builder. Advertisement.

"There'll be five or six in for tea, Jones. You may serve it in Mr. Brood's study."

A look of surprise flitted across the butler's impassive face. "Yes, madam." For a moment he had doubted his hearing.

"And ask Ranjab to put away Mr. Brood's writing material and reference books."

"I shall attend to it myself, madam. Ranjab went out with Mr. Brood."

"What out?" exclaimed Yvonne, rigid.

Frederic turned upon the butler in a flash. "You must be mistaken, Jones," he said sharply.

"I think not, sir. They went away together in the automobile. He has not returned."

A long look of wonder and perplexity passed between young Brood and his stepmother.

She laughed suddenly and unaccountably. Without a word she started up the stairs. He followed more slowly, his puzzled eyes fixed on the graceful figure ahead. At the upper landing she stopped. Her hand grasped the railing with rigid intensity.

Ranjab emerged from the shadows at the end of the hall. He bowed very deeply.

"The master's books and papers have been removed, sahibah. The study is in order."

CHAPTER VII.

Ranjab the Hindu.

The two old men, long since relegated to a somewhat self-imposed oblivion, on a certain night discussed, as usual, the affairs of the household in the privacy of their room on the third floor remote, not, however, without first convincing themselves that the shadowy Ranjab was nowhere within range of their croaking undertones. From the proscribed regions downstairs came the faint sounds of a piano and the intermittent chatter of many voices. Someone was playing "La Paloma."

These new days were not like the old ones. Once they had enjoyed, even commanded, the full freedom of the house. It had been their privilege, their prerogative, to enter into every social undertaking that was planned; in fact, they had come to regard themselves as hosts, or, at the very least, guests of honor on such occasions. They had a joyous way of lifting the responsibility of conversation from everyone else; and, be it said to their credit, there was no subject on which they couldn't talk with decision and fluency, whether they knew anything about it or not.

And nowadays it was different. They were not permitted to appear when guests were in the house. The sumptuous dinners—of which they heard something from the servants—were no longer graced by their presence. They were amazed and not a little irritated to observe, by listening at the head of the stairs, that the unfortunate guests, whoever they were, always seemed to be enjoying themselves. They couldn't, for the life of them, understand how such a condition was possible.

Brood had been working rather steadily at his journal during the past two or three weeks. He had reached a point in the history where his own memory was somewhat vague, and had been obliged to call upon his old comrades to supply the facts. For several nights they had sat with him, going over the scenes connected with their earliest acquaintance—those black days in Calcutta. Lydia had brought over her father's notes and certain transcripts of letters he had written to her mother before their marriage. The four of them were putting those notes and narratives into chronological order. Brood, after three months of married life and frivolity, suddenly had decided to devote himself almost entirely to the completion of the journal.

He denied himself the theater, the opera and kindred features of the passing show, and as he preferred to entertain rather than to be entertained, seldom found it necessary to go into the homes of other people. Yvonne made no protest. She merely dressed Frederic into service as an

those doors, and then—

"Joe," Mr. Dawes, after he had tried the doors on this particular occasion, "I made a terrible mistake in letting poor Jim get married again. I'll never forgive myself." He had said this at least a hundred times during the past three months. Sometimes he cried over it, but never until he had found that the cabinet doors were locked.

"I wish Jack Desmond had lived," mused the other, paying no attention to the ecstacy. "He would have put a stop to this fool marriage."

They sat down and pondered.

"Jim's getting mighty cranky of late," ruminated Dawes, puffing away at his unlighted cigar. "It's a caution the way he snaps Freddy off these days. He—he hates that boy, Joe."

"Oh! Not so loud!"

"Confound you, don't you know a whisper when you hear it?" demanded Dawes, who, in truth, had whispered.

Another potential silence. "Freddy goes about with her a good deal more than he ought to," said Riggs at last. "They're together two-thirds of the time. Why—why, he heels her like a trained dog. Playing the planner morning, noon and night, and out driving, and going to the theater, and—"

"I've a notion to tell Jim he ought to put a stop to it," said the other. "It makes me sick."

"Jim'll do it without being told one o' these days, so you keep out of it. Say, have you noticed how peaked Lydia's looking these days? She's not the same girl, Dan, not the same girl. Something's wrong." He shook his head gloomily.

"It's that dogged woman," announced Dawes explosively, and then looked over his shoulder with apprehension in his blue eyes. A sigh of relief escaped him.

"She's got no business coming in between Lydia and Freddy," said Riggs. "Looks as though she's just set on busting it up. What can she possibly have against poor little Lydia? She's good enough for Freddy. Too good, by hooey! Specially when you stop to think."

Dawes glared at him. "Now don't begin gossiping. You're as bad as an old woman."

"Thinking ain't gossiping, confound you. If I wanted to gossip I'd up and say flatly that Jim Brood knows down in his soul that Freddy is no son of his. He—"

"You've never heard him say so, Joe."

"No, but I can put two and two together. I'm no fool."

"I'd advise you to shut up."

"Oh, you would, would you?" with vast scorn. "I'd like to know who it was that talked to Mrs. Desmond about it. Who put it into her head that Jim doubts—"

"Well, didn't she say I was a lying old busybody?" snapped Danbury triumphantly. "Didn't she call me down, eh? I'd like to know what more you could expect than that. Didn't she make me take back everything I said?"

"She did," said Riggs, with conviction. "And I believe she would have thrashed you if she'd been a man, just as she said she would. And didn't I advise her to do it anyway, on the ground that you're an old woman and—"

"That's got nothing to do with the present case," interrupted Dawes hastily. "What we ought to be thinking about now is how to get rid of this woman that's come in here to wreck our home. She's an interloper. She's a foreigner. She—"

Mr. Dawes leaned a little closer. "I wonder how Mrs. Desmond likes having her over there playing the piano every afternoon with Freddy while Lydia's over here copying things for Jim. Ever stop to think about that?"

"I think about it all the time. And, by thunder, I'm not the only one who does, either. Jim thinks a good deal and so does Lydia. It's a darned—"

Mr. Riggs happened to look up at that instant. Ranjab was standing in front of him, his arms folded across his breast, in the habitual pose of the Hindu who waits. The man was dressed in the costume of a high-caste Brahmin; the commonplace garments of the Occident had been laid aside, and in their place were the vivid, dazzling colors of India, from the bejeweled sandals to the turban which crowned his swarthy brow and gleamed with rubies and sapphires uncounted. Mr. Riggs' mouth remained open as he stared blankly at this ghost of another day. Not since the old days in India had he seen Ranjab in native garb, and even then he was far from being the resplendent creature of tonight, for Ranjab in his home land was a poor man and without distinction.

"Am I awake?" exclaimed Mr. Riggs in such a awful voice that Mr. Dawes gave over staring at the cabinet and favored him with an impatient kick on the ankle.

"I guess that'll wake you up it—" and then he saw the Hindu. "Ranjab!" cooed from his lips.

Ranjab was smiling, and when he smiled his dark face was a joy to behold. His white teeth gleamed and his sometime unfeeling eyes sparkled with delight. He liked the two old men. They had stood, with Brood between him and grave peril far back in the old days when even the faintest gleam of hope apparently had been blotted out.

"Behold," he cried, magnificently spreading his arms. "I am made glorious! See before you the prince of magic! See! With a swift, deft movement he snatched the half-smoked cigar from the limp fingers of Mr. Riggs and, first holding it before their blinking eyes, tossed it into the air. It disappeared!

"Well, of all the—" began Mr. Riggs, sitting up very straight. His eyes were following the rapid actions of the Hindu. Unlocking a drawer in the big table, the latter peered into it and then beckoned the old men to his side. There lay the cigar and beside it a much-needed match!

WHY IRISH OBSERVE ST. PATRICK'S DAY; SHAMROCK'S SYMBOL

Patron Saint of Old Erin Was Former Slave.—Teachings to Christianity Converted Many.

Today is St. Patrick's Day. The green is very much in evidence in Janesville for many sons of the "ould sod" and their descendants are celebrating the day in the most appropriate manner. But there is some symbolism in the shamrock in the hat band and of St. Patrick, that Irish patron who has people all over the world celebrating his birthday.

About a year ago St. Patrick was born at Kilpatrick, near Dunbarton, Scotland, so says one historian; but England, Scotland, France and Wales each claim their country to be his birthplace, and as records were kept in those days, historians are unable to dispute them. However, all agree that he was born in Ireland, and that his family was patrician, and that his father belonged to a Roman family of high rank.

St. Patrick is considered the patron saint of Ireland, where he was in turn—slave, priest and saint. He converted the Irish and founded churches and monasteries; in the monasteries he established schools, which were the foremost of Europe for about three centuries.

Slave of Druid Priest. When about 16 years of age St. Patrick was taken captive by pirates and sold into slavery as a shepherd in Ireland, where he lived several years, while he tended his master's sheep, he learned the Celtic tongue, the manners and customs of the people and the gathering of the Druid religion. His master, Milchu, a druidical high priest, and Patrick became familiar with all the details of Druidism, from whose bondage he was destined to liberate the Irish race.

His prayers for deliverance were answered, and after many adventures he reached the great Bishop St. Germain in France, with whom he remained for about 18 years and under whose tutelage and guidance Patrick was promoted to the priesthood. Later St. Celestine entrusted St. Patrick with the mission of gathering the Irish race together into one fold of Christ, and he returned to Ireland to preach the gospel to the then heathen population.

Man of Miracles. He was called the man of miracles and the fame of Patrick's marvelous powers preceded him. The Druid high priest, Milchu, is said to have seized with a fit of frenzy, to have gathered his treasures into his mansion and setting it on fire to have cast himself into the flames. An ancient record adds: "His pride could not endure the thought of being abandoned by a former slave."

The Druid magicians were St. Patrick's chief enemies, and it is said he was forced to curse them out of existence.

Unnumbered miracles are said to have been performed by St. Patrick. A popular legend relates that the saint and his followers found themselves one cold morning on a mountain without a fire to cook their breakfast. At a glance Patrick bade them collect a pile of snow and ice, which done, he breathed upon it, and instantly it became a pleasant fire.

Banishing of Serpents. One of the greatest of the miracles said to have been performed by St. Patrick was that of driving the venomous reptiles out of Ireland and rendering Irish soil so obnoxious to serpents that they die on touching it. Colgan relates that St. Patrick did this by beating a drum, which instrument was long on exhibition as a relic.

Potteen, a favorite beverage in Ireland, is said to have derived its name from St. Patrick, and, according to legend he was the first to instruct the Irish in the art of distillation. This, is said by historians to be doubtful as he was said to be a strict promoter of temperance. A "St. Patrick's League of the West," a temperance organization, was quite recently formed by the bishops of the western province and has planned to cover the whole of Connaught with a network of temperance societies and to stamp out drunkenness by the most carefully devised methods. One-half of the population of Ireland now are total abstainers.

The Shamrock and the Trinity. The significance of the shamrock which is worn in the hatband and most universally all over Ireland on St. Patrick's day is that when St. Patrick was preaching the doctrine of the trinity to the pagan Irish he used this plant, bearing three leaves on one stem, as a symbol of the great mystery. And it is curious coincidence that the trefoil in Arabic is called shamrah—and symbolizes a similar feature in the Persian religion.

Pliny in his Natural History says that "Serpents are never seen on the hills of snakes and scorpions."

Besides the 272,880,000 people of the Roman Catholic faith, many others wear the shamrock and join in the celebration of March 17.

The local lodge of the Ancient Order of Hibernians have prepared a program for this evening to commemorate the day. This will be held at the Apollo theatre with the Rev. William Mahoney, assistant pastor at St. Patrick's church, the chief speaker. This morning at ten o'clock they marched from their hall to St. Patrick's church to hear mass.

Talks on University.
 After his remarks on business the governor arose and sat down, when suddenly he remembered that he had neglected to speak of one important matter in which he is deeply interested, the state university, the problem of a more equitable distribution of educational advantages. "I would have been deeply regretted if Governor Phillips had failed to have something to say on the educational question," as statements on this subject have as pointed and well directed as any I have seen," said Governor Phillips in his campaign. "I said that I purposed changes in our educational system that better attention would be given to the common schools of the state. I have built up a splendid university and a normal school system, but it would seem that our rush for splendor the little college house at the country crossroads has been largely forgotten. And there is nothing I can do to better the school I shall do it, for it is the soul of the masses."

The Governor Philipp school conditions Governor Philipp has taken for supervision through the appointment of assistants to the county superintendents. He favors a non-salaried board of education appointed by the county superintendents which shall name the superintendent's assistants. Then Governor Philipp strongly urged a higher standard on the part of the teachers of the normal schools, he charged, did not aid the county school in any particular, as there were only 123 normal school teachers in the rural schools.

Normal graduates would make the county school teaching more remunerative so that it would be as attractive as city teaching and the payment of better salaries and the exacting of higher standards of efficiency. The county training schools should be improved, he said, so as to furnish a better

BARBER BOARD GETS SEVERE INDICTMENT

Assemblyman W. L. Smith, A Milwaukee Barber, Says Members Are Named to Play Politics.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE]
Madison, Wis., March 17.—The state barber's board is absolutely unnecessary. It is not doing good work and its members are appointed to render political service.

This was Assemblyman W. L. Smith's indictment made before the senate state affairs committee yesterday afternoon. Mr. Smith is a Milwaukee barber. He suggested a plan which met with approval from Senator Bosshard, that the board's functions be exercised by the state health inspectors under the state board of health, thus avoiding expensive traveling and duplication of inspection.

The Baxter bill would change the application fee for examination from $1 to $5, and the license fee from $2 to $1. Both speakers thought that the initial fee of $5 and annual renewal of $1 was sufficient for barbers. Mr. Smith praised the Milwaukee plan of barber inspection by the health board. Senator Bosshard agreed that if consolidation be tried the logical plan would be to merge the barber's board with the state board of health. Mr. Smith said under the present law it takes a fee of $2 yearly from 4,000 or more shops in the state to keep the barber's board working. The members get $3 per day and expenses. Under the board of health, he said, the state will make a surplus. Senator Bosshard believed the tendency is for a governor to appoint to the barber's board men with the biggest political pull.

CHASSEUR LASSOED IRON BOX WHICH GUARDED SPY.

Paris, March 16.—The second lieutenant of a battalion of Alpine Chasseurs tells how the lasso was utilized against the Germans in the Vosges.

"We occupied a wooded knoll," he says, "so well placed the Germans couldn't think of taking it by assault, so they set their miners and sappers at work. They arrived thus within a few yards of our trenches and had the audacity to place a sentinel there, well protected in a sort of armored box with loopholes. In it there was no way of driving him out. One day a chasseur who had seen life on the American plains, asked permission to tie his hand with a rope. At midnight he slipped out of the trench and crept close enough to throw a slip noose over the box. Then another and another before the German realized what had happened. With the aid of a number of comrades the box with the German in it was dragged into our trenches."

ORGANIZE MINISTERS CORPS FOR DEFENSE OF GERMAN INVASION

(Correspondence Associated Press)

Glasgow, March 17.—Twenty-five militant persons of the Church of Scotland, the United Free Church and the Congregational Church have organized a Ministers' Corps for Home Defense. A clergyman, who is an old volunteer, is engaged as drill instructor. The members are thoroughly in earnest and filled with enthusiasm.
